

Sherilyn is a registered community pharmacist in Australia and is currently doing her PhD focused on the dose optimisation of anti-microbial drugs to enable personalised treatment for patients. She has a passion for writing and scientific communications and is currently the Assistant Editor of the International Association of Therapeutic Drug Monitoring and Clinical Toxicology and has previously served as the FIP ECPG Publications Coordinator. She has also worked as a medical writer for a pharmaceutical company.